

Meanwhile, Devorah accidentally overhears Gershom davening to HaShem to bring them a child. Devorah feels very bad she cannot bare him a child and offers him to marry another wife.

Devorah comes to Menachem (a local gold merchant) to ask for his daughter - Mileta's hand in marriage to bring an end to his childless days.

Suddenley, a fire and disease break out in the town and Rabbi Gershom helps hundreds of poor people struggle back to life.

Johan comes to King Basil to try get back at the Jews for his humiliating experience. He convinces the king that the fire and plague were the Jew's fault and manipulates him into banishing them from the town.

When the Jews hear of the evil decree they gather up in the Shule and Daven to HaShem to help them.

Princess Theadora (King Basil's niece) hears of the decree and comes to her uncle to beg for the Jewish people's mercy.
